Dear Judy,

At a recent meeting of the TCCL, concerns were expressed about the disappearing nature of civil liberties in Howard's Australia. It was noted that Australia has no Bill of Rights, as does N.Z. The ACT however does, and Victoria is well on its way to enacting such legislation.

Does your government have a position on this issue? I would welcome any information that you could supply.

Thank you for your attention.

Yours Sincerely,

Paul Storr
President, TCCL
